About Esther

SHORT

Esther Jackson-Stowell is the CEO of Ekot Group, a woman-owned holding company building tech-enabled service, software, and real estate companies from Utah.

FULL

Esther Jackson-Stowell is a Nigerian-born entrepreneur, real estate investor, author, and community leader with more than 15 years of experience in real estate, business, and leadership. She is the founder and CEO of Ekot Group, a woman-owned holding company that builds and operates businesses on one belief: the unglamorous industries are exactly where good management and technology create outsized returns.

Her portfolio includes Ekot Properties & Real Estate, where her journey began in 2010; Wasatch Cleaners, a residential cleaning company operated like a tech startup; Tidumo, the operating system built to run it and now productized for the industry; and Akovex, an AI operations platform. She co-hosts The Broker’s Table, a podcast on entrepreneurship and the real mechanics of building.

A devoted woman of faith, wife, and mother, Esther is a contributing author of The Not-So-Secret Lives of Real Mormon Wives and has been recognized among IMPACT Magazine’s Women of Impact. She holds a Master’s degree in Public Administration and is driven by a simple mission: to empower people to uncover their gifts, build generational wealth, and leave a legacy of purpose.
